My name is Kim Heath and I live in Sun Valley in the beautiful Blue Mountains. I have for many years run my own beauty business using colour and style to bring out the natural beauty in women using makeup and clothing. This has provided me with the ability to accurately see colour and use this experience to create designs/patterns in a unique way. In art I have studied pastels, acrylics and drawing and now discovered the medium of encaustics which I have fallen in love with.

Encaustics is painting with melted wax and what I love about it is the total freedom it gives me to create beautiful art works. I am only limited by my imagination! I have attended specific workshops in encaustics as well as mosaics and attended Charles Sturt Univeristy to undertake a full time encaustics course with the internationally known Trish Seggebruch who travels the world teaching this subject. I now run my own training courses.

Several of my pieces have been hung in various art exhibitions in the mountains. Several have been sold as well, and I have also done work by commission. Each work is completely unique and unlike anything else you will encounter.

I manage my own studio / gallery in Sun Valley (lower Blue Mountains) which provides a fantastic Blue Mountains environment in which to work, create and be inspired by!
